25 Students Write Today in Effort To Win Prizes

Oliver Essay Prizes Attract Largest Entry List in Years

Accompanied by scratching of heads and pen chewing, thoughts on Catholicity and American Citizenship are being recorded today in the annual Oliver Essay Contest by 4 contestants seeking one of the three cash awards to be given to the winners.

The prizes of 75, 50, and 25 dollars, respectively, are being competed for by 25 students representing each of the four classes. Contestants began writing this morning at nine o'clock and are expected to continue well on into the afternoon and perhaps into the night if necessary.

Six Thousand Words

Allowed to bring a short outline and a few notes into the classrooms where the examination is being conducted, hopeful essayists must limit their compositions to six thousand words, it was indicated by Brother Henry, professor of English, who is conducting the competition.

The date for the competition was moved ahead from yesterday to today so that COLLEGIAN editors may participate in the contest.

The purse of $150 is taken from a fund created by Bartley P. Oliver, oldest living alumnus of the college and is awarded each year to the three undergraduates writing the best essays.

Winners last year were Jack Reilley, Joseph Donnelly, and Lawrence Webber, finishing in the order named. Donnelly is competing again, the other two having graduated.

Competitors Named

At this writing students signed up for the contest include William Bettencourt, James Dowd, Wally Garard, Joseph Cone, John Williams, Paul Johnson, William Glackin, Charles Carroll, Alvin Quittman, seniors; Philip Kearney and Felix Castagnola, juniors; George Dacres, Leo Haggerty, Lester Dole, John Kelly, Raymond Foley, Lloyd Gallardo, sophomores; Earl Kloppenburg, Horway Witteman, and William Morrison, freshmen; and Brothers Lewis, James, Damian, and William.

Some of the students named are expected to have dropped out from the competition at the last minute.

Prizes will be presented to the winning students in the lounge on December 8, the Feast of the Immaculate Conception.

Charles Keyer Wins Class Presidency In Six-way Race

At the first class elections of the freshmen class held on Wednesday, Charles Keyer, graduate of Sacred Heart High school of San Francisco, was elected president over a field of six candidates.

George Arabian, also of San Francisco, was elected vice-president while Jim McPartland and John McPartland, brothers, won the treasurer and secretarial offices, respectively. Both McPartland boys are from Evanston, Illinois.

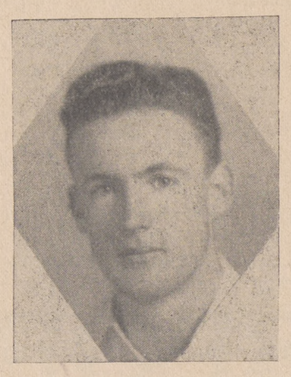
All four officers are members of the freshman football squad. Arabian, Keyer, and Jim McPartland are halfbacks, while John McPartland is an end.

James Prendeville, also from San Francisco, came second in the presidential race, while Mike Desmond, Jim McDonald, and Merrill Buck trailed in that order.

Closest balloting of the day came in the vice-presidential race. Arabian won by a narrow margin over Frank Miller, also of Sacred Heart and a basketball player.

The secretarial race was handily won by Jim McPartland, while Horway Witteman of Los Angeles, and Rufus De Savigny of Berkeley, fought it out for second place.

In the race for the position of treasurer, John McPartland nosed out Ilo Scatena of Bakersfield, by six votes. James Lankas, Frank Boyle, and Ray Ojeda polled a large vote also.



Heads Dance

Robert Fleitz, prominent senior day student, who is heading the committee making arrangements for the supper dance to be tendered the College of Holy Names November 18.

Holy Names Will Be Dance Guests On November 18

With requests for the supper dance in conjunction with Holy Names college granted by the social committee, plans are well under way for the social, Robert Fleitz, chairman of the affair announced.

Scene for the supper dance to be held Friday evening, November 18, will be the college dining hall. As yet, no orchestra has been selected for the affair, Fleitz stated.

In order to facilitate arrangements for the dance, two meetings will be held next week, one with Holy Names social committee, and the other, with newly formulated campus committee, Fleitz said. The social committee for this dance will include the four class presidents, two representatives from each, and two student body officers. This committee will have complete charge of the dance, Fleitz stated.

Adoption of New Song Debated

Executive Council Votes to Accept Piece as Official

Saint Mary's College has a new fight song, written by Brother Alfred and arranged by Joe McTigue, veteran Gael band leader.

The song was made official Wednesday by a 5-0 vote in the executive council, the rest of the members not voting.

Only after a heated discussion was the adoption made, many of the councillors feeling that it should be put up for a vote to the entire student body. At the reminder of President William Glackin that "the Star-Spangled Banner was adopted by the Congress not by the people," the assembly agreed that these were parallel cases and the motion, made by Joseph Donnelly and seconded by William Fitzgerald, was carried.

Opposition Evidenced

William Bettencourt, who fought to the last to have the song put up to the student body, made his stand clear after the meeting.

"I want it understood that I have nothing against the song, but I believe that the whole student body should be given the privilege of accepting or rejecting the song."

Bill Dooms, APGU president, announced that a small glee club is being gathered together by Brother Alfred to present the song at the Santa Clara Rally next Thursday evening.

Committee Stalled

In the absence of Norman McPhail, student body treasurer, the new budget committee put off action until his return. However, the addition of William Spehar to the committee was voted in. All other financial matters were likewise postponed.

Immediately prior to the close of the meeting, Bettencourt moved that a telegram be sent to the football team in New York in the name of all the students, to be written by John L. Sullivan, ASSMC head. The motion was carried.

'Bells of St. Mary's' Composer Dies On London Visit

A. Emmett Adams, composer of "The Bells of Saint Mary's" died in London on October 30 at the age of 48.

He was born in 1890 in Australia.

A new song, "Life's Great Sunset," which he had asked to be published only after his death, will be played at his funeral.

"The Bells of Saint Mary's" was composed after the World war.

Shaves, Haircuts In Order as Gael Pictures Begin

Frosh Start Camera Parade on Monday From 11 to 3

Campus characters will come shaved and with haircuts as per the unusual starting Monday when the proverbial birdy will be gazed upon by unblushing students, the occasion being the annual picture taking fiesta staged by the Gael, student yearbook published by the junior class.

At least this is the admonition of Editor Peter LoBianco, who urges students to look their best for the photographer during the next and following weeks.

Freshmen will start the camera parade Monday from eleven to three o'clock. White shirt, dark tie, and suit coat is the attire prescribed by LoBianco for the event. Students will be notified by the bulletin board when to appear.

Nick Johnstone of the Rembrandt studios will not be the only individual taking pictures next week, however, for the Gael camera contest is in full swing, according to Al Speckins, photography editor of the publication.

Motif for all pictures will be student functions rather than architecture and landscape as has been the custom in the past, it was indicated. Camera addicts will have until February to submit pictures for the many valuable prizes to be awarded for best photographs.

Technical Perfection

Technical perfection will be stressed over subject matter of submitted photographs, LoBianco stated. Good composition, strong highlights and contrasts are qualities to aim for, the editor said, advising students not to take pictures on cloudy days.

As many snapshots as desired may be submitted but should all be glossy prints. Thirty-five milimeter snaps should be enlarged to at least two by two inches, it was indicated.

All prints accepted for publication will not be returned, but students will be compensated for all loss. Prize winning snaps will be the property of the Gael.

Contest judges include A. S. Hofmeister of Agfa Ansco Co., Nick Johnstone, Rembrandt Studios, Al Speckins, and LoBianco.

Irish Club Heads Select November 16 For Talent Display

As a beginning to the new highly active program of the Eire Oge, campus Irish society, a lounge entertainment has been scheduled for the Wednesday following the Santa Clara game.

Herschel Smyth has been appointed chairman of the committee arranging the program of the "Show of Shows," assisted by Joe Hurley and Jorgen Johnson.

Although the talent will not be entirely composed of members of the Eire Oge, a goodly portion of the program will consist of Irish numbers.

Joe Ruetz, said to be as nimble as Fred Astaire, is to be approached and if he accepts, will be featured on the star-studded list.

Other campus luminaries who will perform are Ed English and Cy Greenlaw, Joe McCarthy, Joe Hurley, Bill Glackin, Mike Desmond, Frank Boyle, Charley Morey and others.

Invitation Extended Clubs to Aid Catholic Action

The newly formed campus Catholic Action society will serve as the nucleus for all other campus laymen organizations on the campus, such as the Young Men's Institute, Knights of Columbus, and Saint Vincent de Paul, it was indicated this week by Leo Haggerty, president of the Catholic Action society.

All these organizations will be invited to send representatives to meetings of the society, and inform club members as to the activities planned in regards to Catholic Action.

The layman's organization is fully organized with Brother Matthew, professor of history, selected as moderator. The group elected Robert Starrs, freshman, to the position of secretary.

A letter has been sent to James L. Hagerty, professor of philosophy, to secure an archdiocesan speaker for the local society in approximately two weeks, Haggerty stated. If the speaker is secured, he will address the group at a night meeting. All previous meetings have been held during the day.

First Friday Mass Celebrated for Mrs. Margaret Moore

First Friday Mass was celebrated this morning in the college chapel in accordance with the time-honored Saint Mary's tradition.

At the request of the senior class the Mass was said for the repose of the soul of Mrs. Margaret Moore, mother of James Moore, who passed away recently following a long illness.

Celebrant of the Mass was the Reverend Father Albert T. Duffy, who is acting as student chaplain in the absence of the Reverend Joseph I. Manning, now in New York.

Alumni Will Hold Dance November 12

Annual Football Dinner Affair at San Francisco Club

Looking forward to a Saint Mary's victory the next day, alumni, old and young, will swing to the music of Lloyd Allen's orchestra on Saturday night, November 12, eve of the Gael-Bronco clash, the occasion being the annual football dinner dance held by the alumni association.

Each local unit of the association, as well as several from out of town, will dance that night at the Mart club in San Francisco, locale of the affair, according to Elton Lawless, chairman of the committee in charge of the dance.

Both alumni and their friends are invited to attend the event, Lawless indicated.

The price is $2.50 per person and reservations should be made without delay as a large crowd is anticipated, Lawless said. Reservations may be made by letter, wire, or telephone at the office of C. Wesley Davis, 941 Monadnock building, San Francisco, SUtter 3321.

Economics Clubmen Attend Meeting In San Francisco

Information relative to the annual convention of the Student Institute of Pacific Relations was gleaned this week by four members of the Economics association who attended a pre-conference meeting held in San Francisco.

The student institute will convene in Napa for a four-day session commencing on Thanksgiving day, November 24. Round tables on various present day topics will be conducted by representatives from the campuses of numerous Pacific coast universities and colleges.

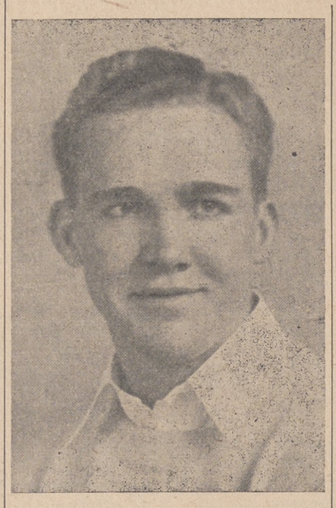
Attending the meeting in San Francisco were George Carter, secretary of the Economics club and senior class president, Paul Johnson, Brickpile editor, Charles Carroll, president of the International Relations club, and Alvin Quittman, COLLEGIAN editor.

Williams Speaks in Sullivan Contest Finals November 20

John Williams, debate manager, will represent Saint Mary's college in the eleventh annual Sullivan oratorical contest to be held November 20 at the YMI building, 50 Oak street, San Francisco.

Williams was chosen in an elimination contest held recently in La Salle lounge to decide the Saint Mary's representative in the annual contest.

William Bourne '38 won first prize of fifty dollars last year when he defeated orators from Santa Clara university, University of San Francisco, and Loyola university.



Graduate Returns

John "Hi-ho" Kenny, former Gael yell leader, who returns to the campus next Friday night in the role of master of ceremonies for the Santa Clara rally dance sponsored by the local Knights of Columbus.

Three Schools to Take Part in Debate

Merits of Political Candidates Will Be Forensic Topic

Political candidates of the state of California will come in for much discussion on next Tuesday, November 8, when a political debate will be held on the campus, it was announced this week by John Williams, senior and varsity debating manager.

Stanford University, California University, and Saint Mary's will participate in the discussion, each school sending two debaters. The relative merits of Governor Frank Merriam and Culbert L. Olson, candidates for governor, and Sheridan Downey, Democrat, and Phillip Bancroft, Republican, candidates for United States senator, will be presented and argued by the debaters, Williams said.

Two Stanford Speakers

The two speakers from Stanford will talk on Olson and Merriam, respectively. California's debaters will defend Downey and Merriam. For Saint Mary's Art Williams, junior, will speak for Bancroft, while Joe McCarthy, senior, will defend Olson. A large crowd is expected, and a lively discussion will ensue.

On Monday Joe Donnelly and Al Quittman, senior students, journey to Santa Clara to meet the Bronco debaters, arguing on the negative side of the questions, "Resolved: That the United States should ally itself with Great Britain."

The University of San Francisco will debate here on November 9th against Lloyd Gallardo, sophomore, and James Butler, junior, Williams also stated. On November 16th the same teams will debate at the Hilltopper school. The question, known as the Pi Kappa Delta question, which will be debated is: resolved: "That the government should

Knights of Columbus, Junior Class Complete Dance Arrangements For Big Game Weekend

Graduate of Class Of '37 Returns as Emcee of Affair

Once more the voice of "Hi Yo Kenny, ex-yell king of the class of '37, but this time as master of ceremonies, will ring throughout Madigan gymnasium, at the Santa Clara-Saint Mary's football rally, Thursday evening, November 10, according to Harry Hooper, chairman of the affair.

The rally this year is sponsored by the campus unit of the Knights of Columbus.

A new feature at this year's "little big game rally," according to Hooper, will be the introduction of the new school song, composed and written by Brother Alfred, dean, school of science.

As for featured speakers, invitations have been extended to Laurence "Buck" Shaw, head football coach at Santa Clara, Joseph Kennedy, perennial freshmen, and Edward "Slip" Madigan, local director of athletics, Hooper stated.

Entertainment for the evening will be supplied by Jack Kelly and his orchestra, who will play at the rally and at the dance. As in past, admission to the rally is free. A nominal fee of 50 cents will be charged for admittance to dance, with women admitted free.

Invitations have been extended this week to College of the Holy Names, Mills College, San Francisco College for Women, Dominican College and the Newman club of the University of California.

Jimmy Howard to Play for Post-Game Celebration

Plans for the Santa Clara post game dance to be given by the junior class on the night of November 13th were completed this week, August Gaspar, president of the class, announced.

The locale selected by the committee, which consists of Tom Feeney, William Fitzgerald, and Dave Cunningham, is the Colonial room of the Saint Francis hotel, one of the most beautiful ballrooms in the city. This luxurious room is centrally located, romantically lighted, and is large enough to comfortably accommodate 350 couples, Gaspar said.

William Fitzgerald

There will be refreshments directly adjacent to the ballroom, tables for all in separate niches, and boxes on the mezzannine floor.

Jimmy Howard's band, one of the finest in Northern California, will furnish the music. Howard's band is one of the few in the country that feature an electric organ in combination with the conventional instruments. He also features two lovely feminine vocalists. The band is slated to follow Joseph Sudy at the Sir Francis Drake Hotel in San Francisco.

The affair will be based on the theme, "Meet the Gridders," and the bids are in the shape of a football with the different positions on the team, such as right end, left tackle, and etc., so designated.

All members of both squads will be in attendance, as well as members of the student bodies of each school.

Bids for the dance will sell at $1.25, a remarkably low price for a dance of this caliber. Expenses are being partially defrayed by a raffle of four tickets to the Santa Clara game. The drawing will be held November 9th in the college dining hall.

Professor Newsom Speaks Monday

APGU Sponsors Talk On India by Recent Addition to Faculty

Speaking on India, the land of mystery, Henry J. Newsom, profesor of engineering, will address the student body in de la Salle lounge Monday, according to Alvin Quittman, chairman of the affair. The lecture is being sponsored by the Alpha Phi Gamma Upsilon, campus honor society, which also sponsors the Brickpile and debating.

Professor Newsom, who has lived and worked in India as an engineer for many years, will recount his adventurers and associations with his friends in India, which includes the famous Mahatma Ghandi, Quittman said.

Arrangements for the Brother Leo poetry recital, sponsored by the honor society, were completed this week when Brother Leo approved of the recital. The lecture will take place in de la Salle lounge Thursday evening, November 29, John Williams, debate manager, announced.

Seniors and Frosh Dominate Honor Roll at Quarter; Two Have Perfect Records

Seniors and Freshmen dominated the honor roll for the quarter which was released this week by the Recorder's office. The fourth year men placed 7 members on the A honor roll, while the yearlings had thirteen men on the B honor roll.

The sophomore class was close behind, with the junior class bringing up the rear.

On both honor rolls the frosh placed a total of 17 members, while the sophomores maintained their brilliant record of last year and put 15 men on both honor rolls.

Thirteen seniors made the coveted lists, and only six juniors were listed. The mighty seniors had the highest average in accordance with the number of members in the class.

Two freshmen, Robert Starrs and Horway Witteman, were the only students with straight A averages. Brother V. William, Brother T. Brendan, and Robert Bazzanella just missed the charmed circle by receiving one B.

Following is the list:

First honor roll, requiring a 2.5 average or better:

Seniors: Joseph Donnelly, Brother S. George, Brother Gerard, William Glackin, Boyd Judd, John Sullivan, and Brother V. William.

Juniors: Phillip Kearney.

Sophomores: Robert Bazzanella, Brother T. Brendan, Wiliam Brusher, Brother T. Jerome, Brother T. Lewis, and Brother S. Peter.

Freshmen: Brother S. James, Robert Starrs, Harold Vogelsang, and Horway Witteman.

Second honor roll requiring a 2.0 average:

Seniors: James Dowd, Albert Monge, Alvin Quittman, Brother Raymond, Warren Robertson, and Algeo Brill.

Juniors: John Franey, Brother S. Leonard, John Mamola, William Spehar and Milo Millicivich.

Game Broadcast

Broadcast of tomorrow's Saint Mary's-Fordham football classic can be heard at 11 o'clock over station KSFO, the northern California Columbia outlet, with Ted Husing at the microphone.

Brickpile Features Variety of Articles

Professor Newsom Advises Students On Business Career

Interspersed with bits of humor and striking examples, a wealth of philosophical thought in the business and scholastic world is given in the current issue of the Brickpile, in an Professor Henry J. Newsom's article, "From Business to Education."

Feature article of the campus literary magazine, which appeared yesterday, is Professor Newsom's article in which he writes of his business experiences and offers advice to students planning a business career upon graduation.

Heading the list of student contributers is Charles Carroll, '39, who satirically dilates on the nation's habit of avidly perusing the gaudily-colored Sunday comic strip, the article being entitled "Sunday Morning," the second in a series of articles on peculiarly American institutions.

Paul Johnson reveals himself as a writer of note as well as an editor in his "Religion: Alaska Style" in which he tells of one of his experiences with religion in the far north. The article deals with the Russian Orthodox Church in the gold-mine territory.

Jitterbugs Condemned

"Floy Floy" is the title of a condemnation by William Glackin, and as the title indicates it has to do with the current swing music and jitterbug craze. Glackin's sentiments regarding jitterbugging are expressed fully when he writes, "Dancing is becoming a sport comparable in danger to soccer or ice hockey."

Robert Carlson, graduate of the class of '36, presents a new theory of character reading, one which has not been accepted by the board of psychological Research, in his article, "Tie Your Shoestrings."

Herschel Smythe's regular column, "It's This Way," and the editor's Forum conclude the literary end of the magazine. The art aspect is represented in a linoleum cut by Peter LoBianco illustrating Professor Newsom's article.

Gael Gossip

by BILL BETTENCOURT

EVERYONE'S doing it, so why should we be different! We'll string along and pick the Galloping Gaels to give the Rams of Fordham their second licking in two years when the two forces clash tomorrow at the Polo grounds in New York.

The score, according to our book, is 13-7 in favor of the Gaels!

From the psychological viewpoint, it's Saint Mary's, according to John Williams, one of Professor James L. Hagerty's proteges.

"Battered and bruised and no replacements will prove too much for Jimmy Crowley's lads," speaks Williams. "A tie with Purdue and a defeat by Pittsburgh have demoralized the squad. On the other hand, the Gaels are fresh, eager, and confident of walloping their foe."

Myrta Wohlwend, Slip Madigan's secretary and one of the three Belles of Saint Mary's, says: "Saint Mary's, of course!"

Joe McGrath, whom we predict next year will prove to be one of the best fighting guards ever to play for the Gaels, says: "It's a tough one to pick." But McGrath had a gleam in his eye when he spoke. So, put him down as picking the once-defeated Moragans.

Realizing that they can turn in one of the best Gael records in several years by beating Fordham and Santa Clara, Saint Mary's will be a fighting and an inspired team when it takes the field tomorrow. Let's leave that to Slip!

Although we believe that the Rams, led by Len Eshmont, have a real offensive attack, and, for any team except a Pittsburgh, they have a defense that is the Maginot line of collegiate football, we agree with Williams when he says the Rose hill eleven will be demoralized, nursing bruises, and will lose.

Read on, Macbeth...

Klotovich, a Sophomore All-American?

As others have pointed out, if Mike Klotovich has a great day against Fordham, he will come home ranked as the leading Pacific coast candidate for all-American laurels.

We think the brilliant key-man of the Moraga attack will live up to expectations—and help trim Fordham!

If the "A" squad can keep the ball in the middle of the field during the first quarter, look for Klotovich to lead the offensive attack during the second quarter—and score!

During that second quarter we like to think that Klotovich will astound Gay Gotham with his running, passing, punting, punt returns, and pass interception ability.

But—the starting eleven must keep the ball away from dangerous territory during that important and crucial first period.

Look for a repetition of the second quarter during the final stanza!

That's why we like the Gaels, 13-7!

Santa Clara No. 1 Pacific Coast Team

By virtue of their amazing record, the Santa Clara Broncos should rate the No. 1 spot on the Pacific coast. Some critics still place the California Bears at the top of the coast heap. That's ridiculous!

Whom has California defeated?

Stub Allison's crew has licked Washington State, Pacific, California Aggies, UCLA, Washington, and Oregon State—all second-rate competition. Saint Mary's, the best team to face the Bears this year, should have spanked the pants off the Bears.

What California has done to her second-rate conference competition so, too, could have been done equally as well by Santa Clara and Saint Mary's.

The Broncos, on the other hand, have trimmed four excellent squads in Texas A. & M., Arizona, Arkansas, and Michigan State. And they'll score 20 points on a USF team Sunday that is every bit as good as the conference competition the Bears thus far have faced.

Oh, yes! The Broncos also walloped a conference foe, Stanford, by more points than any other team!

It wouldn't surprise us if USC tamed California tomorrow. However, for the sake of the Saint Mary's record, we hope the Strawberry canyon team conquers.

The Gossiper's coast ratings for this week:

(1) Santa Clara, (2) California, (3) Saint Mary's, (4) USC, and (5) UCLA.

Glendon Is of Gael-Irish Heritage!

"In their publication, The Foghorn, the Dons claim Don Glendon as a friend of the University of San Francisco 'although of Santa Clara heritage,'" reads a note we received in the mail this week.

"Please correct that statement," pleases the note. "Glendon is of Saint Mary's-Notre Dame heritage. Warn the Dons to beware of men who sell their alma mater short because of a real or a fancied grievance against one individual."

(Are you listening, Donald?)

Incidentally, before the football season expires, we would like to say a little piece about Glendon, one of the few Saint Mary's boys who failed to make good!

Fighting Irish to Visit Saint Mary's

Notre Dame's Fighting Irish and their successful successor of Knute Rockne, Elmer Layden, will visit our campus after their game in Los Angeles with the Trojans on December 3.

It's our belief that the college which often has been tabbed "the Notre Dame of the west" should give the real Notre Dame a welcome befitting true and popular champions.

The visit probably will take place on Monday, December 5—five days prior to the final examinations. A day off from studies to honor Layden and his Fighting Irish is suggested.

Notre Dame and Saint Mary's have much in common. It'll be the first visit by a Notre Dame delegation to Saint Mary's. Let's make it a long-remembered one!

NO VICTORY BELLS TO TOLL FOR S.M.

by TOM McLAUGHLIN, Fordham Ram Sports Editor

FORDHAM UNIVERSITY, Nov. 4.—Here's a poem:

Out of the west and into the east,
Came the Madiganmen for a Rameses feast;
With galloping backs and powerful line,
They hope to have a heck of a time!
On Rose Hill stands the Crowley crew
That swears to dish the Gaels their due;
No victory bells will toll tomorrow
With Madigan limping home in sorrow.

Don't blame me! That's the sentiment of the football squad. For next to the New York university clash, which is a neighborhood knockdown and drag-out affair, the Saint Mary's tilt is uppermost not only in the minds of the Ram gridders but also in the minds of the Fordham student body.

Series Knotted

As the series stands now, we are knotted up in a Mexican stand-off with three victories apiece and one deadlock listed in the record book. Fordham will attempt to erase that deadlock tomorrow.

As Mike Kochel, Ram co-captain, put it—"I want to leave Fordham this year with the knowledge that I helped to beat Saint Mary's."

Sentiment of All

That, my fine feathered friends, is the sentiment of the entire university from Jim Crowley down to the lowest freshman!

If we do nothing else but lose this season, a triumph over the Gaels will take much of the sting out of a strong of losses.

However, I can promise you one thing: anyone from Saint Mary's who sees Lightning Len Eshmont, sensational sophomore speedster, streak around the gridiron, will leave the ball park and agree with all the fans in New York that he is one of the best to appear in many a moon.

Tells Secret

I'll let you in on a little secret. Fordham has a very special reason to want to lick each and every team from the Pacific coast. If you remember, last year we had a pretty fair ball club . . . in fact, it was undefeated.

But when a certain notorious bowl committee back your way had to choose an opponent, the Rams weren't even considered remotely. Thus, the intense desire of the Rams to show their western brethren how football really is played back east.

Here's luck—but not too much of it!

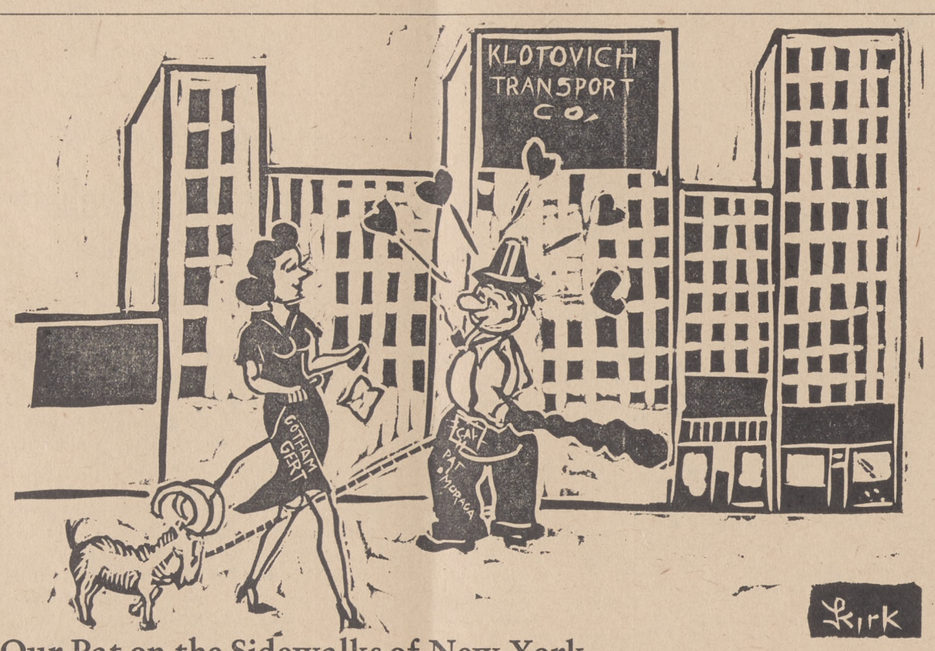
Perrie OK But Mazaika Is Out!



Our Pat on the Sidewalks of New York

Moragans 11-5 Short-Enders

Foudy Picks Sims To Star for Gaels

By TOM FOUDY

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—Dear pupils: If we only had a few bucks, we'd all be millionaires!

Saint Mary's Galloping Gaels are 11-to-5 short enders, and they have the best chance of winning in three years.

Mike Mazaika definitely is out of the game with a badly wrenched knee, but "Ironman" Mike Perrie is ready to go!

Slip is working like a beaver each day. Since Wednesday, the Moragans have had to work out twice daily—one open to inspection and the other secret, even to New York's most astute scribes. Hence, the long odds.

Others All Set

Aside from Mazaika's ailment, every last Gael is in top-trucking form and raring to go.

I think Slip's really sincere when he says the first team will start, but you know how that guy is. Another contributing factor to our short-end position has been our schedule. No one around here apparently has ever heard of the University of San Francisco, Portland, or Gonzaga.

Loyola, however, is a top favorite with everyone. If we could only play some beautiful team like Loyola each week, I am sure our esteem would mount appreciatively.

Lieb Well Known

In other words, Loyola takes up where these other teams leave off, all because of one Tom Lieb who is well known around these parts.

Slip is planning a surprise for those Fordham guys. His name is Jackie Sims. He has been working double-duty night and day. This can mean but one thing: Madigan's strategy in overworking Jackie all year had a purpose behind it. Sims definitely is scheduled to play an important part in tomorrow's battle at the Polo grounds.

I like Sims to show these bims from Fordham a thing or two tomorrow.

Teams Meet Next Year on Nov. 18

Saint Mary's and Fordham next year will clash at the New York Polo grounds on Saturday, November 18, according to Tom McLaughlin, Ram sports editor. Last year Fordham and Saint Mary's signed a three-year pact which expires with 1940's game.

Next season's Ram schedule opens with Waynesburg and rolls on with Alabama, Tulane, Pittsburgh, Rice, Indiana, Saint Mary's, and New York university in the order named.

Welcome Home!

Traveling Gaels Arrive Wednesday

A train station greeting will be given the Galloping Gaels next Wednesday in Oakland whether or not they triumph over the Fordham Rams tomorrow, student officials announced this week.

The Saint Mary's special is scheduled to arrive before the noon hour, according to Santa Fe officials.

The special departs from the Pennsylvania station in New York at 1:30 a.m. Sunday. En route home, the Gael party Sunday will traverse the states of New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, and Illinois.

Sunday's dinner will be served in Chicago.

Traveling through the farming state of Kansas, the Gaels and their followers Monday enter Colorado, getting a glimpse of Pike's peak at Colorado Springs, the Rocky mountains, and Denver, the capital of Colorado named after General J. W. Denver, first federal governor of Kansas territory.

Leaving the Union Pacific at Ogden, Utah, the Moraga special crosses the great Salt Lake and the Sierra Nevada mountains on Tuesday and reaches the bay area Wednesday before noon.

Gaelets Conquer

Score 26-6 Win Over San Jose

Before a crowd of 1000 who braved the weather, the Saint Mary's freshmen defeated the San Jose yearlings, 26 to 6, Friday night at the Oakland ball park.

The Gaelets' first score came in the opening minutes of the first quarter. With the ball on San Jose 20-yard line, Jim McPartland, left halfback, pitched a pass to Bob Boysen, right halfback, who was in the clear and romped unmolested over the goal line.

In the third quarter, again McPartland gave a helping hand. Stealing the pigskin on his own 20-yard line from Turk Kasparovich, he raced down the sidelines for another score.

Touchdowns came thick and fast in the final period.

Gaels Review Trip at Luxurious Club

Fans Everywhere Cheer Confident Moraga Team

By JACK SIMS

WESTCHESTER COUNTRY CLUB, New York, Nov. 4.—While preparing to retire last night at this magnificent and luxurious New York country club, some of the boys were recalling the events of the past days. Perhaps you'll be interested to know:

Our first stop was the Grand canyon in Arizona on Wednesday. Immediately upon our arrival we were given motor transportation to Hopi point on the rim of the canyon. With the canyon as a beautiful background, a group picture of the entire Gael party was taken.

Jerry Dowd kicked the longest punt in history when he booted a football into the canyon from Hopi point. Rangers estimated the probable distance at 2000 feet.

On a field near the canyon, a light workout for the team was held. Afterwards we viewed the famous Hopi Indian dance, and that was followed by a get-together dance at El Tovar hotel with music by a cowboy orchestra. Train puffed out at 11 p.m.

Arriving at Lubbock, Texas, Thursday afternoon, we were welcomed by a splendid Texas Tech band playing familiar tunes. A reception committee provided cars for the party to tour the city, while the footballers had a hard scrimmage under the arcs of Tech's field.

Greeted by Prepsters

Early Friday found us pulling into Hot Springs, Arkansas, and to our pleasant surprise we were greeted by a 100-piece high school band flanked on both sides by members of the student body who played and sang everything from "The Bells of Saint Mary's" to the latest swing tunes. All this was interspersed with college yells.

Dowd and Vic Martinelli missed this, having had to "hoof it" two miles after missing the train on a short stop outside of town.

Down the main thoroughfare wended the parade, past "million dollar bath house row" to the beautiful Arlington hotel.

The squad worked out in Indian summer weather. A light workout without pads was the order.

A dinner dance was held in the Arlington that evening. With reluctance we bade goodbye to Hot Springs at 11 p.m.

Senor Moraga

Predicts:

By JACK CRAMPTON

WESTCHESTER COUNTRY CLUB, New York, Nov. 4.—Fordham should have licked Pittsburgh, according to Gotham critics, who claim the Rams lost because of their lack of reserves.

We expect a tough game, but with our reserve strength, we expect to come home with a victory.

After last night's practice, the following predictions were collected from Coach Norman Strader and players—

Red Strader:
Fordham has a much faster ball club this year than in the past, but the Gaels should win by a close margin.

Mike Klotovich:
The Gaels, 12-7!

Mike Perrie:
The Rams have a good team, but the Gaels will conquer, 13-7.

Milo Millicivich:
If it doesn't rain, the Moragans will triumph, 14-7.

Primo Brusatti:
A great game with Saint Mary's winning, 14-12.

Jerry Dowd:
The Gaels are in good shape; they should win, 14-6.

Andy Marefos:
It will be a hard-fought battle, but tab the Gallopers to win, 13-6.

Ralph Jack:
The rest we have received will give us the extra power. Saint Mary's 7-0.

Bob Hartnyk:
Saint Mary's will win, 12-7.

Tony Lucas:
Saint Mary's will win, but the score will be close.

Lavine Bettencourt:
The Gaels will win, by a small margin.

Harry Aronson, Cohn's boy:
This is our year. The Rams are due for another setback. The score: Saint Mary's 13, Fordham 10.

Ivan Pivaroff:
We should take them, 7-0.

Jack Sims:
The Rams have a fine team, but this is our year!

There they are, and not a defeat in the car-load!

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—Here in the great metropolis, the Senor, after a long cross-country jaunt, feels in excellent shape for another perfect week of football prognosticating.

Although I picked all five games correctly last week, I still feel shaky after the close squeezes of some of the teams. The Santa Clara and Stanford contests were a little too near for comfort. It seems that most of the opponents were more formidable than the Senor or the teams had reckoned.

But the old master will do much better this week. Still, a 100 per cent average for two straight weeks is nothing to ignore!

Perfection both in winners and in scores will be the prodigious aim of the Senor, so do not be surprised if he falls from his pedestal.

From the civilized environs of New York, I feel secure from all threats and reprimandations. One of the outstanding games in the country (and how the Broadway scribes have gone for it) is the Gael-Ram tilt on the morrow.

Take a deep breath, friends, for here are the master's gilt-edged choices.

The Moragans Will Win!

This is a titanic battle between two of the nation's best teams. The Rams are highly regarded in this sector despite their defeat by Pitt, so the Rose hillers are the favorites. The Klotovich-Eshmont duel is the major attraction of the contest, and the Senor predicts that Mike will outshine his able opponent.

The Rams absorbed a terrific physical beating last Saturday and should not be at top form. After two weeks of rest, the Gaels are ready to gallop. Eshmont will score on a 50-yard run. But the Moragans will win! 13 to 6.

Phoenix to Face Moffitt Packers

Undefeated in two league games, the Moraga Phoenix clash with the Moffitt Packers Sunday morning at the San Pablo ball park, according to Manager Al Lingua.

SHADOWING the GAELS

by TOM FEENEY

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—As the Shadower pens this column, he is sitting near a window on the thirteenth floor of the Waldorf-Astoria hotel, overlooking the hustle and bustle of the big city.

The New Yorkers are rushing about as though everything depended on getting somewhere in a great hurry, and the enormous amount of traffic is endlessly moving like a stream of ants. The largeness of the city, its millions of inhabitants, its numberless lights, and its beautiul theatres are enough to take one's breath away.

Joe Hurley, Bob Smith, Ken Meitz, Norm MacPhail, and Glenn Sinnott are still a bit tired from the cross-country jaunt, and, for that matter, the Shadower doesn't feel so pert himself.

But the long trip was worth it. The great amount of country seen, the many cities visited, and the many beautiful girls seen en route—all of this was educational. But enough of that!

Tilt Big News

Here the big sports news of the week is the Gael-Ram intersectional tilt, which is looked upon very favorably by the big city scriveners.

The Gaels slipped into New York rather quietly, without the customary blare and ballyhoo of former years, and this silence leads the scribes to believe that Slip Madigan really has a ball club this year.

At the Westchester country club, where the Gaels are safely ensconced, the spirit is high and the team is in fine shape. In fact, the boys believe they can beat Fordham by more than one touchdown. If Pitt did it, why can't we? So they argue.

Rams Unknown Quantity

Although the Rams showed their strength against Pitt last week, they remain an unknown quantity for tomorrow's game. It is true that the Rose Hill eleven showed considerable drive against Pitt last Saturday, but they were keyed up for the contest and were in top physical and mental condition.

Therefore, it is only natural that the Rams will suffer a letdown, no matter how slight, which will not see them in their best condition.

Secondly, the Panthers gave them a terrific physical beating which is bound to weaken them. It cannot be determined to what extent, but nevertheless, it will keep them from being in prime physical shape.

So it all adds up to the fact that the Rams are a rather unknown quantity for tomorrow's contest.

Gaels Near Peak

Meanwhile, in the Gael camp everything is going along smoothly.

The Moragans want this Ram game more than anything else. Having suffered defeat for the last two times in the big city, the boys do not want to have another bot on their escutcheon.

Again, a win over Fordham would add to their prestige, reestablishing them in the national football picture as in days of yore.

And provided they knock over Santa Clara, after the Ram contest, it is bound to mean a bowl invitation from somewhere in the south.

Lack of reserves will not hamper Madigan as it did in the Cal game, because he has two first teams instead of one. The teams are about equil in ability, with a slight edge going to the second unit for its spirit and zest.

RAMS TALLY 61 POINTS -- GAELS GET 60 IN N. Y.

Tomorrow's intersectional game between Fordham and Saint Mary's at the Polo grounds in New York will be the eighth and the rubber game of the series, each team having won three games.

Of the seven games played, only one resulted in a tie—7-7 in 1935.

Only once has more than two touchdowns been scored on either team, and that once came in the first game of the series when the Moragans came from behind to win, 20-12, in 1930.

Fordham has scored a total of 61 points; Saint Mary's, 60.

Here are the scores of past games between the rivals:

YEAR	WINNER	SCORE
1930	Saint Mary's	20-12
1932	Fordham	14-0
1933	Saint Mary's	13-6
1934	Saint Mary's	13-9
1935	A tie!	7-7
1936	Fordham	7-6
1937	Fordham	6-0

Andersen Named Frosh Cage Coach

Clarence "Swede" Andersen, center on last year's varsity basketball team, this week was appointed assistant coach by Harlan Dykes.

According to present plans, Andersen will handle the freshman squad and also will help Dykes with the varsity.

Gael Opponents

Broncs Continue Win Streak As Pitt Beats Rams

Of the two remaining opponents on the Saint Mary's grid schedule, one still is undefeated after 15 games and the other was beaten last week by one of the nation's outstanding squads.

The Fordham Rams' defense weakened in the closing minutes, enabling the Pittsburgh Panthers to score a 24 to 13 victory Saturday. No team has scored as many points against the strong Fordham squad since early in the 1935 grid season.

The Rams were leading when the last quarter started, but the Panthers took advantage of the tired New Yorkers and pushed over three touchdowns within ten minutes.

Receiving their closest scare of the current season, the Santa Clara Broncos last Saturday eked out a 7-6 win over Michigan state's scrappy eleven, chalking up their fifteenth consecutive win and remaining in the choice list of untied, undefeated teams.

Santa Clara's touchdown came as the result of a blocked kick and a 30-yard run for the touchdown by Walter Smith, Bronco lineman. He put the game on ice with a good placement. The visitors at Michigan were outgained, but had several chances to score.

Senor Moraga Predicts:

California vs. USC

The Golden Bears will have one of the hardest games of the season with the Trojans who are rolling now. I'm inclined to favor the Bears, but don't be surprised if the Trojans come out ahead because this game is a toss-up. Bottari and Lansdell will star for their respective elevens, although USC has more good backs than Cal and might pull another Pinckert out of the group. Cal to win: 13 to 10.

Santa Clara vs. USF

After a mighty close shave, the Broncos will be bouncing back into top shape again. However, they won't be at their best for this contest because injuries and a long train ride will hamper them. The Dons are ready for this game just as they were ready for the Gaels, having had two weeks of good practice, and they should make an awfully close contest of it. But the Broncos reserve strength will triumph: 13 to 0.

Notre Dame vs. Navy

Undoubtedly one of the best elevens in the nation, the Fighting Irish should continue on their victory march. With a multitude of good backs and good linemen, Elmer Layden has enough strength to outpower any team of Navy's calibre.

The Midshipmen have pointed for this tussle and should make it close in the first periods. However, Zontini, Sitko, Simonich and the other Irishers will win: 20 to 6.

Stanford vs. Washington

A battle of pre-season favorites who have potentially great teams. This tussle should show which team has made the most improvement since the start of the season, a rather dismal start for both of them. The Huskies extended Cal a few weeks ago, while the Indians were the "better" team against UCLA although they lost. With Paulman in the lineup the Indians could win, but the Senor will stick with the Huskies: 13 to 7.

Moraga Golfers Not to See Action This Semester

Because of numerous unforseen troubles which have come up at the last minute, Bill Dooms, golf manager, announced this week that Saint Mary's golfers will not see action this semester.

Dooms has received several letters from junior colleges stating that they will be unable to put the Gaels on their schedule. It was pointed out that members of the visiting golf squads are engaged in other activities, thus preventing them from signing in the minor sport.

Dooms also announced that because of lack of funds the driving range project tentatively has been dropped. In its place, Dooms said that plans are now under way to construct a driving cage.

Confident Varsity Greeted by Numerous Fans

Arriving at Cave City, Kentucky, Saturday morning, we boarded autos. After driving through ten miles of wonderful autumn foliage, we reached the Mammoth Cave hotel.

Here we enjoyed a southern dinner—warm cider, fried chicken, honey and biscuits. All this to the tunes of southern songs such as "My Old Kentucky Home."

Visit Awesome Passages

Then came the trip through the caves, taking three and one-half hours. These passages are nearly as awesome as the view of the Grand canyon. Lanterns were provided and the guide led us through many formations until we reached Echo river 360 feet underground where we were given a boat ride.

Then, with tired feet, the guide brought us to the surface and daylight again.

Sunday morning the special pulled into White Sulphur Springs and was greeted by smiling Norman (Red) Strader, who scouted the Ram-Panther battle.

Father Joseph I. Manning said Mass in the observation car, after which everyone proceeded to the palatial Greenbrier hotel where lunch was served. This is the home of Sam Snead, famous golfer who won the Oakland open last year. Many in the party watched him tee off from the clubhouse.

The team had a tough scrimmage on the polo grounds of the hotel, but aside from a few bruises, the members came out in fine style.

Another dinner dance was held in one of the beautiful dining rooms of the Greenbrier.

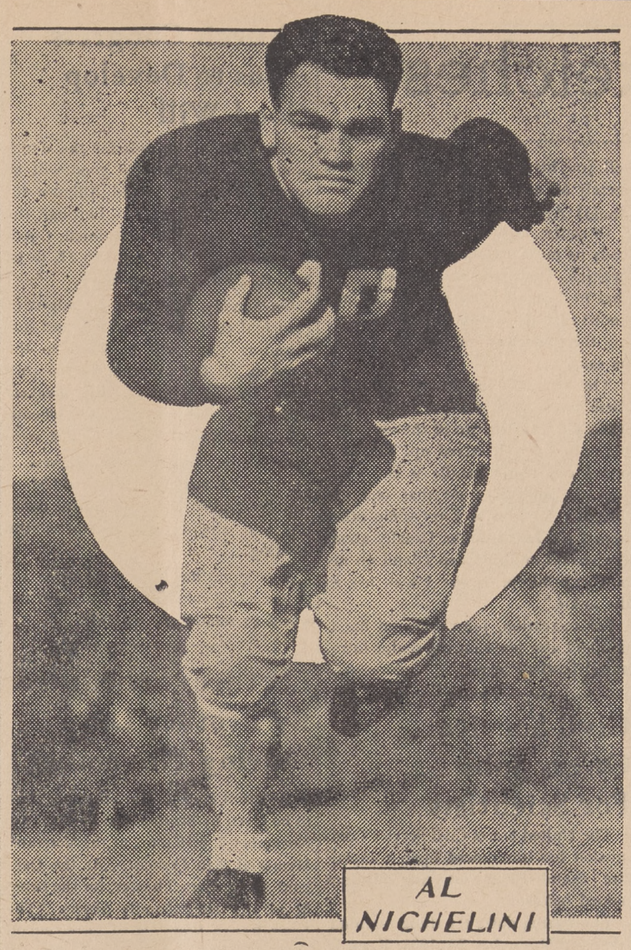
Historical Cities Seen

At 1 a.m. Monday the special pulled out for Richmond, Virginia. Arriving at 6:30 a.m., the team and rest of the party were loaded on busses and taken on a sight-seeing tour of 50 miles to Williamsburg. Here the famous historical cities of Yorktown and Jamestown were visited.

After lunch the team was guided through the capitol building of the colony of Virginia. The capitol succeeded several state houses which stood at Jamestown, Virginia's first capital.

The team worked out on the William and Mary athletic field, situated on the edge of a beautiful campus. After practice we returned to Richmond.

Tuesday we arrived in New York.



Prepsters Choose Another Gael as Coach!

Appointment of Al Nichelini, former Gael pigskin star, as athletic director and head football coach at Weed high school was announced this week. JUNIOR-SENIOR TILT SETTLES CAMPUS TITLE

"Big games" are scheduled in the intramural touch tackle league next week with the juniors and seniors clashing for the title Thursday afternoon.

Freshmen and sophomores tangle Tuesday afternoon.

The juniors yesterday trimmed the freshmen, 26-0.

Fighting a scoreless tie for two quarters, the senior eleven came back in the third period to defeat the sophomores, 6-0, Wednesday.

With the pigskin on the sophomores' 30-yard line, Bud Merrill, left halfback, threw a touchdown pass to Algeo Brill, end, who crossed the goal line standing up.

Gaelets Favored Over Loyola

All-L.A. Backs Threat To Freshmen Tonight

Billy Byrne's University of Loyola freshmen arrive in San Francisco today to clash tonight with Mal Fiese's Galloping Gaelets under the arcs at Seals stadium on the other side of the bay bridge. Sponsored by Saint Mary's club, the game will start at 8 o'clock.

Because of their brilliant 26-6 victory over the San Jose state Spartlets last Friday night at the Oakland ball park, the Moraga Gaelets rule slight favorites to beat the Los Angeles yearlings.

Byrne's eleven has defeated Citrus JC, 13-0, Oceanside JC, 19-0, but was tripped, 13-0, by the strong Compton junior college Tartars in their first game of the season.

All-City Threats

Gene Grady and Ray O'Doul, all-Los Angeles backs last year, have shown plenty of promise and will see plenty of action tonight, according to Bob Blaire, sports editor of the Loyolan, Loyola student publication.

Formerly a fullback, O'Doul now plays at the key spot, left half, with Grady. O'Doul is the best passer on the squad and excels at line plunging, while Grady is a flashy open-field runner.

Another outstanding left halfback of the visitors is Phil Pontrelli, who rivals Grady in open-field running.

Gaelets Seek Win

With a record of three wins and two defeats, the Fiesemen hope to register their fourth win over their highly touted foe. Against the Spartlets the Gaelets found themselves for the first time this season.

If the yearlings get over the Loyola Cubs, the "little-big game" on next Friday with Len Casanova's unbeaten Colts should be a "natural," according to campus critics.

Byrne will field a team averaging 200 pounds per man, each of whom averages six feet in height. The visitors outweigh Tom Lieb's varsity a good 15 pounds to the man.

Gael-Ram Heroes!

Fordham Scribe Recalls Series

By Timothy Cohane, Fordham Publicity Director

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—It's the rubber game tomorrow between the colorful Galloping Gaels of Saint Mary's and the Rams of Fordham. The Gael-Ram series has been one of the most thrilling in intersectional annals.

When Slip Madigan first brought his team to New York in 1930, Fordham had not been defeated in two seasons. The Rams piled up a 12-0 lead in the first half, with Saint Mary's unable to register a first down.

In the second half, paced by Angel Brovelli, Madigan's troup put on a great 20-point rally that cemented their popularity in New York and gave the young series a color that it has never lost.

After a year's lapse, Saint Mary's returned. This time big Ed Danowski passed and quick-kicked Fordham to a 14-0 upset triumph. Brovelli again starred for the invaders and received one of the greatest ovations ever accorded a player when he left the field in the last period.

The 1933 game saw George "Icehouse" Wilson leading the Gaels to a 13-6 win. Fordham put on a remarkable last quarter rally that just fell short of registering another touchdown.

In 1934, when Saint Mary's last won, Harry "The Horse" Mattos produced the heroics. Feared mostly for his passing, "Harry the Horse" crossed up the dope by faking passes and banging off tackle for substantial gains. The Rams intercepted a pass and blocked a kick for points, but the Madiganmen won out, 14-9.

The 1935 game ended in a 7-7 tie.

Although Lou Ferry place kicked two beautiful field goals, Fordham won the 1936 game, 7-6, and had a much greater advantage over Saint Mary's than the score indicates.

Exposition Day Is Proclaimed By State Head

Governor Merriam Selects February 18 To End Celebration

A gigantic, statewide celebration leading up to the opening of the Golden Gate International Exposition on February 18 was announced today.

Governor Frank F. Merriam issued a proclamation, statewide in scope, naming February 18, 1939, as "Golden Gate International Exposition Day" in California, and urging the people of California to join in the gala opening of California's $50,000,000 World Fair.

At the same time Leland W. Cutler, president of the Exposition, communicated with the mayors of every city in California and each county supervisor in the state, asking their co-operation in converging their local Exposition celebrations in one gigantic celebration on Treasure Island on the opening day of the Exposition.

To carry out plans for a statewide Exposition celebration, Cutler informed the mayors of 280 California cities the Exposition is forming a "1939 World's Fair Advisory Commission." Each mayor was asked by Cutler to accept appointment as a member of this commisison.

"A statewide celebration is planned, designed to give each city individual advertising and publicity," Cutler declared. "We are asking each mayor to appoint a Citizens' committee to be in charge of local participation."

Cutler likewise invited 296 California county supervisors to become members of the "1939 World's Fair Advisory Commission" and asked their cooperation to insure the success of the celebrations throughout the State.

Senior Sketches

By Roger Heidenreich

In every school, there must be a jack-of-all-trades. At Saint Mary's it is John L. Sullivan who hails from San Francisco. To begin with, he is president of the Associated Students and how he finds additional time for other activities is a mystery. Just listen to this: APGU, Eire Oge, Economics Honor society, Sanctuary society, and International

John Sullivan

Relations club; this is not a list of which are the best clubs on the campus, but a list of the associations which claim John as a member.

Makes Honor Roll

Of course, in between his clubs and being prexy of the students, he manages to find time to do a little studying. The result is a 2.6 scholastic average for all the time that Sullivan has been at college. Regularly every quarter, his name graces the honor roll.

He is a student in the School of Arts and Letters and is majoring in Spanish. For a minor he lists Economics. After he leaves Saint Mary's, he is going to the University of California to get a secondary degree and then he wants to teach Spanish.

You do not need to be told that he is of Irish descent. One look at that map and you know that he is. Reddish-brown hair, blue eyes and a nice freckled complexion immediately give you all the dope that's necessary. When they tell you his name is Sullivan, that is merely an anti-climax.

Social Accomplishments

Of course, as president of the student body he must maintain a certain social prestige. However, he confided to us that he is a bit handicapped. He only knows one dance step. "I've been dancing the same way for over ten years," he said.

The Shag and the Suzy-Q and all of these fancy steps confuse him. "Even when I try one or two of the very simple ones I get all mixed up. The only one I can really handle is the waltz step. As long as I do that one I'm OK; but as soon as I try some other step, I get into trouble. Usually about the second or third step I land on my partner's instep, or else I kick her in the ankle."

For recreation, John dotes on handball and also plays on the senior intramural football team.

Economists Will Make Visit to Exchange, Bank

Scrolls, a distinctive feature, will be given to all members of the Economics society if existing plans succeed, Algeo Brill, president of the society announced this week.

Closely resembling diplomas and reflecting the individuality of the society, the scrolls will be given to the members. This is a feature which no other society has adopted to date, Brill said.

Other honor awards, bearing the seal of the Saint Mary's Economics society, may also be purchased, Brill said.

Final negotiations are under way for a guided tour through the San Francisco Stock Exchange, which is taken every year by the society, Brill stated. Another tour through a Federal Reserve Bank was also on schedule in the future.

Another type of tour will be inaugurated this year for students who have any particular interest in accounting. These students will be sent in groups of two to visit several important business offices, where they will study practical accounting at first hand, Brill announced.

Fordham's P.A. Looks Over Series

Andy Palou tossed a pass to Harry Jacunski, present Ram co-captain, for the winning touchdown. Saint Mary's was totally unable to advance the ball on an obdurate Fordham line.

Last season the Maroon again had a big margin but could win only 6-0. Three other touchdowns were called back, the first on a stabbing 55-yard run by Joe Granski.

Church Congress Aims to Develop Good Will

Constructive methods for the development of international good will be promoted by the World Alliance for International Friendship Through the Churches in an International Goodwill congress November 6 to 11, to be held in a San Francisco hotel.

On Sunday, November 6, pulpits of principal churches in the city and surrounding areas will be open to the speakers on the program of the congress. During the week the speakers will also be used in churches, schools, colleges, and service clubs in this area.

In connection with the congress, a Youth Peace meeting will be held Monday, November 7. A program of dancing and singing will comprise the meeting.

A program has been planned to appraise actual conditions throughout the world in relation to goodwill.

Lectures Scheduled By Brother Leo During November

"What is Personality?" is the lecture to be given by Brother Leo on Monday, November 7, 8:15 p.m., at the Veterans' Memorial, San Francisco. At the Oakland Auditorium Theater, for the benefit of the Holy Family Sisters, "The Long Range View" is to be given on Monday, November 14, at 8:15 p.m.

The topic of Brother Leo's lecture at Dominican College, San Rafael, on Tuesday, November 15, at 4:00 p.m., is "Dante, Laureate of Love." On Thursday, November 17, at noon, he speaks on "Watchers of the Skies," sponsored by the Rotary Club at the Hotel Oakland. The Western Women's Club is sponsoring his lecture, "Rolling Down to Rio" at the Community Playhouse, San Francisco, on Monday, November 21, at 8:15 p.m. Either at the Veterans' Memorial or the Community Playhouse Brother Leo will speak on "The Flaming Sword." This last lecture for the month of November is scheduled for Monday evening, the 28th, and is to be sponsored by the Catholic Philanthropy group.

Was Grandpa An Ape? Find Out November 15

The first of a series of lectures to be sponsored by the Saint Mary's College science department will be given in the lounge on November 15. Brother Lucian will discuss the question of evolution in his talk which is entitled, "Are Man's Ancestors Apes?"

Other lectures will be given throughout the semester on current scientific topics, and will be delivered by the different members of the science department, Brother Alfred, head of the science department, announced.

This is all a part of the program to increase student interest in science and to answer some of the perplexing questions of the day. It is hoped that a science honor society, similar to the APGU, will be formed eventually on the campus, Brother Alfred said.

Directors Plan Meeting

The next meeting of the board of directors will be held Wednesday, November 9, at the Olympic club, 524 Post street, San Francisco.

The directors are requestedto take notice that dinner will be served at 6 o'clock promptly, in order that the business of the meeting may be disposed of without delay.

The executive director, C. Wesley Davis, has stated that numerous matters of importance are to be discussed and he trusts that all of the members of the board will be in attendance.

Notes on Alumni

We have heard that Bob Eckert '37 is no longer in San Francisco, having been transferred to Salt Lake City by the Pariffine Company.

Phipps Rasmussen, who has been connected with the J. Walter Thompson advertising agency since his graduation, has just returned from a month's business trip to Winnipeg.

Elmer Preston '32, former Gael football and basketball star, has probably earned the distinction of being the most far-distant alumnus. Elmer has just been transferred to Bombay by the Standard Oil company. We know that Elmer will continue to sing the praises of Saint Mary's even in that distant land.

Joe McAleese '32, the most famous of the Saint Mary's yachtsmen, has retired as columnist for the Wall Street Journal to enter the marine division of the Fireman's Fund insurance company. Incidentally, Joe has moved from Sausalito to Belvedere with his wife and year-old son.

Freshmen Meet Santa Clara Twice in Month

Witteman and Crosby Named to Travel To Mission School

Two debates with the Santa Clara frosh squad during the month of November have been scheduled for the 15th, and the 25th, respectively, announced freshmen debate manager, Al Lingua, as the immediate forensic program to be handled by the Gael freshmen debaters.

On November 15, a representative team of first year men will oppose the Broncos, upholding the affirmative side of the resolution that: "Fascism is more detrimental than Communism in the United States at present." As yet, Manager Al Lingua has not appointed a tandem to play host to the Santa Clara debaters.

John Crosby and Horway Witteman travel down the peninsula on November 25, to encounter another Bronco forensic team, taking the negative side of the Fascism-Communism controversy, to be presented that evening before a group of Santa Clara students.

Last Tuesday evening in the lounge, Richard West and Louis de Alva affirmed the resolution: "That all state sales taxes should be abolished and the resulting financial burden placed upon the higher income groups," in meeting two young ladies from the University of California.

Goofy Gracie Goes Operatic Friday Night

On Friday evening, November 4, radio listeners from coast-to-coast might as well expect to be carried away in ecstasies over an original musical play of love and romance by Gracie Allen. Gracie has named her tuneful production "Three Loves Has Gracie of 1938." She says it will combine the lyric beauty of "I Married An Angel," the keenness of "Pine and Needles," the breathless comedy of "H—'s a Poppin," and, as far as her own performance goes, the combined appeal of "Victoria Regina" (Helen Hayes) and "Madam Capet" (Eva Le Gallienne). And, oh yes, she also adds that there will be a little bit of "You Never Know," but not a sign of Clifton Webb or Lupe Velez.

That is about all the information the erstwhile prima donna would divulge. She wants it known, however, that two of Hollywood's leading musical comedy writers have worked day and night on the book—the rumor is that during the long hours of preparation Gracie would get the boys all mixed up during the day outlining the plot and it would take them most of the night to make any sense out of it. She also used two script writers and letters of advice from Beatrice Fairfax, Dorothy Dix and Dale Carnegie.

Other leading characters in Gracie's big musical show, in addition to Gracie herself,—that is, if they can get a word in, will be George Burns, Tony Martin, Paul Douglas, Ray Noble and a youngster named Dan Cupid, whom Gracie has engaged sight unseen because a Hollywood agent told her he would add a great deal to the love interest.

So, our advice is, don't miss the season's biggest musical hit—Gracie says it is sure to be a hit because her mother told her so. Tune in on Burns and Allen Friday night and be carried away.

Pre-Legal Students Make Court House Inspection Tour

A trip to the Alameda County Court House was taken last Tuesday by the Pre-legal club, according to Joseph McCarthy, president of the society.

The group was escourted through the office of the public defender, who explained his duties to the club members. The trip was the result of the efforts of Moderator C. Wesley Davis and McCarthy. Other trips have also been planned for the future.

The club also took in several trials at the court house, McCarthy said. Plans for the new law library are still under consideration, Brother Albert having given his permission for such an undertaking, McCarthy stated.

At present, the main occupation of the club is the study of the importance of briefing cases and reading all the available literature on law.

HIGHLIGHTS of SCIENCE

By Boyd Judd

Fatigue is defined as weariness from over-exertion, but many a time a person feels weary when he wakes in the morning after a night's rest. At least five things or conditions can make you feel weary besides hard work.

One of these, according to Dr. F. L. Meredith, professor of hygiene at Tufts college, is the presence in the body of poisons other than those of fatigue. Such poisons are those produced by bacteria. You know how tired you feel, for instance, when you are coming down with a bad cold or some other germ-caused illness.

Chemical disorders other than those due to excessive fatigue may make you feel very weary. For example, if you are anemic, your body chemistry is upset by lack of iron and you feel tired all the time.

Cell changes may also make you feel tired. Failure to eat enough vitamins, minerals, or protein foods may cause a semi-starvation of the body cells which in turn causes changes in their condition. These changes may produce weariness.

Again, if your blood circulates slowly, you may feel weary, because the body cells are not quickly equipped for action and respond in the same sluggish fashion as when they have worked and, as a result of the work alone, are tired.

Finally, your weariness may be due to a state of mind, rather than to work. Being worried or simply bored may make you feel tired On this point Dr. Meredith says:

"Those who are not interested in what they are doing, or are troubled by anxiety and fears of various sorts, are prone to note signs of fatigue too readily, and to interpret their lack of zeal for work as lack of fitness for work."

Fun, excitement, and competition, on the other hand, not only keep you from noticing fatigue but may even keep fatigue poisons from accumulating rapidly.

Installation of Drain Prevents Soil Erosion

Repair Crew Works Along Shores of Lake During Week

A corrugated iron drain of six-inch pipe has been installed under the surface of Madigan football field, according to Mr. Hamilton, superintendent of the grounds. This action was necessary to prevent further erosion of dirt from the grass-covered oval.

In previous years rain water had naturally collected in the saucer-shaped gridiron, and there was no means of draining it off, save by the use of a siphon or buckets. When too much water collected, it drained off of the south end of the field, resulting in the small gulley that can be seen at present.

Instead of allowing the water to run over the steep embankment, members of the yard crew have constructed a concrete drain near the south end of the field, which allows the water to escape underground through the galvanized piping.

During the past week, Lake La Salle has been cleared of all marsh-thriving plant life which had previously fringed the water's edge. The forthcoming winter trees-planting program calls for poplar and willow trees to be placed about the shore of the lake.

Mud and debris is being cleaned from the spillway at the south end of the lake in order to facilitate adequate drainage during the rainy season.

Fight Song Appears In Official Music Publication

The Saint Mary's college "Fight Song" reached the heights of fame with publication in the "Officially Approved Songs of the American Colleges—Western Division" which appeared in recent months.

The "Fight Song" was copyrighted in 1931 by Arthur Wellesley Foshay, graduate of Saint Mary's in 1933.

Full grown trees were planted at the rate of 50 a day to beautify Treasure island for the California world's fair.

cease to use public funds to stimulate business."

Tentative Debate

A tentative debate with San Quentin is listed for November 20, Williams said. A three man team will participate, and it is thought that the San Quentin prison team will be unable to travel, so the debate will be held there. Saint Mary's is the only college to hold debating victories over the prison teams.

Otherwise, forensic squad members are training their sights on the two radio debates to be held over station KSFO late in November and early in December.

On November 26 the local debaters will meet their perennial rivals from Berkeley on the topic, resolved: "That Roosevelt should be elected to a third term," according to Williams.

The topic for December 10, with Santa Clara as the opponent, is resolved: "That San Francisco is the cultural center of America." Saint Mary's will have the affirmative in both debates.

Competition for the varsity radio debates is keen, according to Williams, and in order to decide the best men for the events, a ladder of the standing of squad members is being kept by William Simon, debating manager.

Darkroom Characters Continue To Excell in Noble Art Of Double Crossing

Unseen and unnoticed by the majority of the campus residents, and undeterred by the publicity given to their activities in a recent issue of the COLLEGIAN, the four darkroom devotees of the noble art of double crossing have gone merrily on their way seeking new methods of confounding and confusing each other in the mad race to determine who can use most of the other fellow's photography supplies.

This week the COLLEGIAN not only brings you the latest developments from the darkroom front, but also reveals the identity of the characters and ranks them according to their double crossing ability.

Scheme Backfires

In the first article of the darkroom series we told you of the ace double crosser of the group who pulled a fast one on his cohorts by labeling his chemicals and solutions in code. Definitely the kind of a guy who would take candy from a baby.

Recently the ace was slightly mortified when his scheme backfired and crossed up the master of the double cross. He forgot the key to his code.

Latest Developments Given

Convinced of the dangers that lurked in his code system of labeling chemicals, the ace, more commonly known as Joe "Butch" Donnelly, decided to abandon his intricate method of protection and resort to other means.

It was at this point that Joe justified his ranking as the No. 1 man on the double crossing ladder. Whereas the first two men in the standings both independently decided upon the same mode of protection at the same time, Donnelly proved that he was always one jump or one padlock ahead of the opposition by turning up with three locks, while chiseler No. 2, John Paul Lewellyn, obtained but two.

Do Poor Job

However, the boys holding third and fourth spots on the double crossing ladder will feel much better after reading this article because a brief inspection of the protective devices on the part of the writer revealed that a borrowed screw driver is all that is necessary to restore conditions to the status quo.

Ranked third and fourth respectively, are Al Speckens, and Rod Heidenreich. While there is little to choose between Lewellyn and the aforementioned duo, the difference in ranking is traceable to the fact that Lewellyn has more time to spend in the darkroom than either Speckens or Heidenreich.

The selection of Donnelly as the ace of a group of pretty good boys should not come as a surprise to his classmates, who recognized his peculiar talents as far back as 1935, when Joe was a diamond in the rough.

So if in the future, you should see any of the above mentioned quarter gesticulating wildly and heatedly making or denying accusations, you're bound to be right if you blame it on a darkroom squabble.

Collegian Publishes Words to New Gael Fight Song

Following are the words for the new Gael fight song composed by Brother Alfred of the college faculty.

The composition was recently adopted as an official song of the school by executive council action.

GAEL SWING

Gaels, we strike up the band,
With all our hearts,
It's you we choose.
Hail, the best in the land,
We'll sing your praises tho you win or lose.

Fight, Saint Mary's
Don't give up the ball!
Fight, fight, fight, fight,
Smash right thru their forward wall!
Hail, our trumpets 'll blow,
Like Jerico, a victory o'er the foe!

Other Activities Stop YMI Meet

Officers of Local Chapter Engaged By Various Tasks

Outside activities of officers of the Saint Mary's college council of the Young Men's Institute caused postponement until next Tuesday of the semi-monthly meeting scheduled for last Thursday, October 27.

With President Edward Tracy occupied nights in the ticket office, First Vice-President Thomas Feeney on his way to Fordham, and Second Vice-President Joseph Cone attending night school, it was decided to cancel the meeting for that week.

Tuesday has been selected as the night for the next meeting of the YMI at which time a definite evening, satisfactory to all, will be decided upon. Complete returns of the "Off to Fordham" dance will be made at this meeting.

In the event that the Feast of Christ the King at Kezar stadium is held in the near future, the campus YMI council will again organize a delegation of students and faculty members to attend the affair. Originally scheduled for last Sunday, the Kezar celebration was called off because of rain.

Prospects for new members are bright it was indicated by club leaders and after next week's meeting, the ranks of the council are expected to swell.

November Marked As National Parcel Post Month

"Send it Parcel Post From Anywhere to Everywhere.'"

That is the slogan to be featured during November by the Post Office department, this month being designated as National Parcel Post Month.

Observance of this month is one phose of the celebration of the Silver Jubilee of Parcel Post, which was established January 1, 1913.

A summary of a six-point campaign theme reveals a number of parcel post advantages including, speedy and efficient service, insurance, C.O.D., special delivery, special handling, and mailing on rural routes.

In the 25 years since 1913, parcel post has leaped to second place in United States postal revenues, and in number of pieces handled annually it exceeds the total mail of all classes of certain foreign countries. This offers proof of the service it renders and the public's growing demand for this service.

Former Collegian Man Will Be Married Tomorrow

Culminating an inter-campus romance, Joseph A. Kennedy Jr. of the class of '34 will be married to Martha Daines Steward of 5964 Buena Vista avenue, Oakland, Saturday, November 5, in Corpus Christi church, Oakland, at 10 a.m.

Miss Steward was graduated from Holy Names college, Oakland, in 1932. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Andrew Steward of Redlands.

Kennedy is the son of Judge Joseph A. Kennedy, of the municipal court of Oakland, who is also a graduate of Saint Mary's.

As an undergraduate student, Kennedy Jr. was cartoonist on the COLLEGIAN and was a member of the Saint Mary's band. He has been engaged in commercial art work in Oakland and San Francisco since graduation.

Brief Perusal of Waldorf-Astoria Directory Reveals Many Services Available to Gael Party

Operating on the theory that there is nothing too good for the Galloping Gaels and their supporters, arrangements have been completed to house the entire entourage making the Fordham trip at the Waldorf-Astoria, one of New York's most famous hostelries.

A brief perusal of the directory furnished by the Waldorf reveals many services that will be appreciated, but unused by the Gael athletes.

Through arrangements with the Grand Central Cadillac Renting Corporation, the Waldorf-Astoria offers to patrons smart chauffeur-and-limousine service, for social or business requirements, at any time. New V-16 Cadillacs are provided at rates ranking from $4 to $5 an hour.

Brokers' Services Offered

Emmanuel & Company, members of the New York Stock Exchange, maintain a branch office at the Waldorf-Astoria. The office is located on the North Corridor, Lobby Floor. Every courtesy and facility will be extended to patrons of the hotel.

Prominent business leaders have suggested to us the best technical books in their respective fields. A large number have been collected and installed in the Public Stenographer's office for the use of patrons.

The directory also lists a branch bank, a library, several ballrooms numerous shops, medical service, and many other conveniences which are offered to guests.

Which all adds up to the fact that you can apparently get everything you want without leaving the hotel. However, it's a good bet that the Gael rooters will find their way back to the hotel only when there is nothing else to do.

ST. MARY'S CLUB NOTES

Arrangements have been made by Ed Jones for Saint Mary's clubmen to gather at the Elks' club to hear a broadcast of the Fordham game. We hope to make this an annual affair, so let's get it off to a good start.

Brother Elmer A. Thomas is doing a good job of bringing in new members. His most recent is Charles H. Roddy of the SF Chronicle. And if any other brother wants to know how it's done, come to the next meeting and just say, "Where's Elmer?"

The Monday luncheon at the Hoffman buffet, 619 Market street, is getting bigger and better. Next Monday we'll hear the aftermath of the Fordham classic and we hope it won't be "blue Monday."

Get acquainted week is with us again. Here are some live wires you should know: B. J. Martin, Martin's Automotive Service; Hon. Twain Michelson, Raymond Miller, jurser, River lines; A. J. Mitchell, president Sacramento Northern railway; Seamon Molkenbuhr, Molkenbuhr Bros., jewelers; Joseph Francis McCarthy, SFPD; and L. A. McCrystle, trust officer, Crocker First National bank.

Henry Maritzen rises to say that the best seats at Kezar stadium are in section K, right on the goal line. Henry has been experting the games from that angle all season, and says he hopes Ed Tracy doesn't cross him up and give him seats on the 50-yard line or thereabouts. Tch, tach, Henry, such talk!

He's quiet, unassuming. Gets things done without fuss or fanfare. No job is too big for him, no job too rushed. The success of the Saint Mary's club is due in no small measure to the time and effort he has so generously given year after year. Wonder if we realize how fortunate we are in having for our secretary—George Callan.

We give you, from Stetson's market, Stockton, California, our newest member, Francis P. Caldera. Yes, sir, our young organization is gradually becoming statewide. Wouldn't be at all surprised to see quite a few Stocktonians joining up with Mr. Caldera after he tells his friends of the reason for our club. Saint Mary's college has many friends in the Flour city.

All who can do so are urged to attend the game Armistice day between the frosh teams of Saint Mary's and Santa Clara. Further details will be given in the daily papers. Under Coach Mal Fiese the Gaelets have developed into a fast, smart, aggressive unit, and always give the fans a treat. As the COLLEGIAN goes to press the frosh await the whistle to go into action against a good Loyola team from Los Angeles, in the first football game sponsored by the club. We hope it proves a success, and will be a forerunner for greater support to frosh football in the future.

New Spirit of Junior Class Merits Support by Students

Appearing before the social committee last week was the junior class president, seeking permission to sponsor the Santa Clara post-game dance. The plans submitted for approval were the most pretentious in the brief history of post-game affairs, involving an unprecedented outlay of cash.

The class was granted permission to go ahead with arrangements for the dance providing that the advance sale of bids indicated a successful affair.

Upon the success or failure of the post-game event rests the future of the junior class. If the third year men succeed in sponsoring a successful dance they will be in a position to hold the traditional junior prom next semester.

However, should the event prove to be a failure there is a strong possibility that social committee approval for the prom will not be forthcoming. Under such circumstances the class of '40 would hold the doubtful honor of having been the first class in the history of the college at Moraga not to have held a junior prom.

Yet, in view of what each bid purchaser receives in return for the price of admission, in view of the admirable efforts on the part of the class to put over a big undertaking, and in view of the new spirit which the juniors have displayed recently there is little reason why the post-game dance should not go down in Saint Mary's history as one of the "best ever."

The juniors are doing their part to guarantee the class of '40 a worthwhile future in the social whirl. You can aid by guaranteeing your presence at the post-game dance.

Support for Gaels Asked Regardless of Game Result

Wednesday the Gaels will return from their annual visit to New York. Whether they come as victors or as the vanquished should make little difference in the calibre of the reception that is to be tendered them by the student body at the railroad station.

A victory over Fordham tomorrow would place the Saint Mary's eleven in the front ranks of the nation's football teams since the Rams are still ranked as one of the five strongest teams in the country, despite their loss to Pittsburgh's great Panthers.

If the Gaels bring home the mutton, as represented by the Fordham Ram, they will be keyed to a high pitch for the annual big game with Santa Clara's hard-riding Broncos.

On the other hand, should the team come home shrouded by the gloom of defeat, your support will be needed more than ever to raise the morale of the squad for the crucial game of the season for the local gridiron men.

Today the Broncos stand as one of the few unbeaten and untied major football teams in the land. In all probability they will retain their enviable status until a week from Sunday when they encounter the Gaels.

With or without a victory over Fordham the goal of a successful season can be reached through a victory over the highly rated Santa Clarans.

By knocking the Broncos from the list of undefeated and untied teams the 1938 edition of the Galloping Gaels can make a very creditable entry in the record book.

You can do your part in bringing about a successful termination to an interesting gridiron year by giving the team a hearty welcome on its return.

Remember! Should the Gaels lose tomorrow, make your welcome more enthusiastic, more vociferous, and more spirited than you would for a winning group!

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor: May I call to your attention the policy of Slip Madigan appointing a different captain for each game; the man chosen in each instance being a member of the senior class and playing his last season for the Red and Blue.

With the Santa Clara game about to take place and with every graduating player already so honored, there seems no one left to lead the squad against their foes from the prune belt area. With this mind, may I suggest that Joe Hurley, a senior, be mentioned for that honor, an honor due him had not an injury forced him to the sidelines for good.

As the winner of the Big Little Game designates that team as the San Francisco favorite; with ever so many of the players on both teams coming from San Francisco; with the game being played at Kezar, surely a San Franciscan should lead them (the Gaels) in this battle. I firmly believe Joe Hurley, coming to us from Balboa high, should be appointed honorary captain and be allowed to sit on the bench again with his former team mates. Such would do much to instill a fighting spirit within the team; so much that it might result in victory for the Galloping Gaels.

Yes, the practice always has been to honor a player while he is tops. Let's reverse the procedure and honor Joe, who would be in the starting lineup had not a broken leg, received in the second game of the 1937 season, written finis to a very promising career.

We don't think this is a mistake: Dr. C. P. Boner, physics professor at the University of Texas, has a party along with final examinations. Midway through their three-hour tests, students take time out for coffee and doughnuts—and all on Dr. Boner. We think the prof belies his monicker and that more teachers should take his excellent example.

Brass Tacks

There are two, just two reasons why freshmen flunk out of college, says Dr. L. L. Clark of the University of Texas:

1. Freshmen get too scared of their studies.
2. They don't get scared enough and go to sleep.

Hints on Diet

From the Catholic University Tower:

The gambler should eat steaks.
The barber should stick to hare.
The policeman should diet on beets.
The actor on ham and eggs.
The woodchopper on chops.
The jeweler on carrots.

And sweethearts should diet on venison, because they are so dear to each ther.

An Actor On Acting

A RECENT BOOK, invaluable for students and teachers, explains how the role of Hamlet was interpreted by a present day actor, Mr. John Gielgud. It makes clear that the best way to pluck out the heart of Hamlet's mystery is to see the play from the inside. The actor's view is vastly more informing than the scholar's view. If that be treason, make the most of it.

"John Gielgud's Hamlet" (Oxford University Press, New York, $3) consists of a record of actual performances in London and New York with explanations of costume, stage business, lighting, scenery and especially of character interpretation. Mr. Gielgud is a disarmingly diffident young man, apparently devoid of the hauteur and professional self-sufficiency so often characteristic of English stage celebrities. Our hearts go out to a thespian who can talk like this: "I fear I am an inveterate ham, and shall never be the conscientious interpreter of Shakespeare that I should like to be." That, if you please, from a grandnephew of Ellen Terry, a practical student of his numerous predecessors from Garrick to Leslie Howard, and the man who has received the most cordiel recognition since Edwin Booth!

Mr. Gielgud's opinions, mainly beaten out "between the desire to walk in the traditions of the great ones and yet to carve out some interpretation that I might justly call my own," throw fresh light on the problems of the play, and, to reader unfamiliar with stage conditions and stage history, constitute a positive revelation. Shakespeare suffers, he thinks, because minor parts are usually given to minor players; he would like to have first rate and experienced players read the lines of the soldiers at the opening of "Hamlet," for only thus may the proper keynote of the tragedy be sounded. He recognizes the importance of scenery, but declines to regard it as a matter of primary significance: "Nobody looks at the scenery, however fine, after the first minute or two," while "acting—voice, characterization, movement—interpreting a fine play correctly will still hold an audience enthralled for hours on end." Over valued, too, he thinks, is the graphophone reproduction of artistic speech: "I do not believe that any mechanical reproduction can recreate an acting performance that one has never seen . . . whereas a description by a capable critic may suggest it most vividly and encourage those who come after to use it creatively without any spirit of imitation." And here is something that transcends "Hamlet" and the theater and is susceptible of application in the field of all art, in education, yes, and in religion itself: "It may seem lazy for an actor to copy 'business' or readings from other actors, but I do not believe that one should ever discard tradition without first examining its purposes and inspiration."

Square Pegs In Round Holes

A SOUND principle of right college life is suggested in the somewhat brash admonition, "Get in line or get out!" As in the Catholic Church, the United States Army and the Benevolent Order of Buffaloes, there is in every college a need of direction, government, administration. The men at the top will sometimes jar us a bit, their point of view is not always ours, their way of getting things done may to us appear neither the wiser nor the most efficient way. But we have to sink our personal preferences and submit our individual judgment. That is elementary loyalty.

Yet it is something which some students and some faculty members never seem to understand. The bigger the university the more numerous are those square pegs in round holes who constitute friction points in the academic world. Often they have noble ideals and disinterested motives; but they are nuisances at the same time. In his recent book, "What a University President Has Learned," former President Lowell of Harvard pays his respects to such jarring elements in the Grove of Academe:

"Now, among their many qualities, otherwise excellent, scholars occasionally tend to be mischief makers. . . . Such men may be conservative or radical, though they are usually extreme in some direction, and the objection to them is not on account of their views, but because their idea of lubricating machinery is to throw a monkey wrench into it."

The Bystander

By Bill Glackin

We saw a little item buried on a back page of one of the bay papers the other day which might, we think, be of interest to anybody interested in true Americanism as manifested by our college youth. In terse, matter-of-fact manner the article said, in a few lines, that a group of ROTC students at the University of California had caused a slight rumpus by tearing down from one of the bulletin boards a peace poster put up by the University League for Peace, or some such organization. Upshot of the whole affair was that the school authorities served notice that all posters or bulletins must receive official approval before being tacked up. We think that this little affair deserves a little more publicity than it received.

We don't know just how it could be done, but we think that a few thinking Americans should get together for the purpose of putting public approval on the courageous and patriotic performance of these loyal ROTC men in ripping down the vicious and un-American propaganda that infests the bulletin boards at the university. We think this public approval ought to be given if for no other reason than to combat the raucous protests that will undoubtedly arise from the ranks of the Dirty Reds, who will probably use this incident as another example of what they term the dangerous militarism (ha!) of the ROTC. It is these same Reds who have fought the ROTC, that grand body of young fighting men, from its very inception, who have dared to suggest that the idea behind it was too close to Fascist thought for a democracy, who have insinuated that it was a long step in the direction of regimentation, as if regimentation were something to fear.

It is these same Reds, through their numerous dupes and followers in the universities and colleges, who are spreading the disloyal and unpatriotic propaganda against war and for peace among our American youth, a propaganda which often has the unparalleled brass to suggest that the ROTC is a haphazard, valueless collection of big frogs in little pools that should be disbanded along with other organizations of its kind before America breeds a brand of Fascism all her own. This is outright Communism, and the rats who peddle it should be deported, at least. After all, what's wrong with Fascism, anyway?

We think the University authorities ought to be congratulated for putting their stamp of disapproval, in their own subtle way, on such unpatriotic organizations as the League for Peace. They should have gone further, to our way of thinking, and publicly rewarded the boys for tearing down the poster. Some little thing like, say, letting them take three extra periods of ROTC a week, would have gladdened their loyal hearts and shown the world that the University of California and the ROTC are real American institutions.

War—it's wonderful.

Moraga Musings

Gleanings from Peace Conference

Credited with the wisest move of the day was pacifist Jim Moore, who ducked dinner and thereby avoided a 57-minute after-dinner speech.

It is reported that the local delegation conducted itself in a very commendable manner. The boys were largely responsible for the promotion of a dance which followed the conference; were the first to start dancing, and the last to leave.

Bulletins from the Political Front

Orchids were in order this week for John L. Sullivan, ASSMC prexy, who very ably handled a difficult situation arising on the shores of Lake Merritt.

While on the subject of John L., the Muser takes time out to note that the prexy has been burdened these many months with an unofficial spokesman, who, contrary to the general run of unofficial spokesmen, frequently pops off and conveys the impression that he is speaking with official approval; thereby putting John L. in more than one jackpot.

Did You Know That . . .

George Carter invited some of his friends out for a very interesting evening last Saturday night.

More rallies in the style of the affair given at Brentwood should be held hereabouts.
